

March 2021

Tests find no new COVID cases at Vermont prison

UNH cancels in-person, on-campus summer youth programs

Barre school district to offer free dinner for students

Health officials urge young Vermonters to mask up

Vt. teachers protest lawmakers' proposed pension fix

How to protect your personal finances during the pandemic

'Long-haulers' clinic coming to Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center

Vt. Senate greenlights bill to expand unemployment benefits

Ludlow residents can connect to new free Wi-Fi hot spots

Currier Museum of Art to reopen to the public on Thursday

NH getting nearly \$30.7M in additional federal vaccine aid

Families grapple with loss of loved ones during COVID

Union leader calls for UVM President Garimella to resign over cuts

New Hampshire ramps up vaccine rollout

UVM sees decrease in COVID-positive tests

Next vaccination phases open in Vermont, New Hampshire

NY to expand COVID-19 vaccine eligibility to those over 30

Plattsburgh High School goes remote after positive cases

Several Essex Westford School District schools go remote

How your face mask could be giving you jaw pain

For work or play, Vermonters revel in springlike weather

Daily COVID count surges; younger Vermonters at heart of spike

Vermont opioid deaths up 38% in 2020

Shaheen supports funding increase to fight opioid epidemic

Experts offer advice on bracing for post-pandemic social anxiety

Will Vermont colleges require vaccination passport?

Junior League of Champlain Valley Diaper Bank gets record donation

Vt. lawmakers pass budget, grapple with pushback on pension reform

Gov. Scott hears from students on their pandemic learning experiences

Montpelier quilt project tells story of life during pandemic

Temporary website glitch frustrates Vermonters trying to schedule vaccinations

Gov. Sununu outlines statewide vaccine timeline

What's behind the return to higher gas prices?

Survey: Many small NH businesses still struggling in pandemic

Reports: Cuomo's family got access to scarce COVID testing

Essex Junction school returns to in-person learning

CVPH, Elizabethtown loosen visitor restrictions

2 staffers test positive for COVID at Newport prison

COVID cancels girls Division 1 hockey championship

North Country group helps seniors navigate COVID vaccination signups

Vt. lawmakers pitch plan to shore up pension funds

Vermonters belly up to the bar again

‘Everyone Eats’ expands into New Hampshire

Vt. Senate poised to vote on bill to expand unemployment benefits

Essex boys hockey team tests negative; game on

Isolation Wards

Vaccinated New Yorkers encourage others to get COVID shots

Middlebury offering cash to spur new downtown businesses

NH lawmakers use budget to try to limit Sununu’s COVID powers

Vermont House expected to approve \$150M broadband plan

Suspended Vermont Amtrak passenger service poised for return

Vermont bars can reopen Wednesday

Fate of Vt. hockey title depends on negative PCR tests

Despite vaccination progress, Vt. officials urge vigilance

NY legislative leader and Cuomo critic have COVID-19

Students say hybrid learning taking a toll on emotional health

Governor greenlights high school graduations

VSAC podcast seeks to provide answers on teens

New York’s Essex County remembers lives lost to pandemic

Vermont still weighing CDC's 3-foot separation recommendation

2nd mass vaccination site to be held at NH Motor Speedway

Another Essex Junction school switches to remote learning

More doses available for Dartmouth students and staff at former JCPenney store

Vt. lawmakers consider universal vote-by-mail proposal

COVID strains rising in Burlington's wastewater

COVID cases surge at UVM; UK variant found on campus

NH registers thousands for vaccines, many experience delays

Families of high-risk children feel overlooked in vaccine rollout

Tips on what to ask during pandemic parent-teacher conferences

Will the COVID vaccine rollout mean a return for Vt. concerts, fairs, festivals?

New York opens vaccine eligibility to everyone age 50 and up

3 new positive COVID cases at Newport prison

NH venues push back over new COVID performing arts rules

Vermont officials to promote vaccines in remote Essex County

1st case of Brazilian virus variant confirmed in New York

Catholic Diocese launches partnership with food shelves

Bikes still flying off the shelves

Vt. officials to consider CDC school-distancing guidance

NH officials say new vaccination website performing well

Report: NH veterans home has good infection control practices

L.L. Bean sees sales boom amid pandemic's push to outdoors

Vt. to stick with age-band schedule; Goal to vaccinate all by July

North Country marks anniversary of border closure

Vt. BIPOC advocates push to lift all vaccination age restrictions

Rutland County leads state in vaccinating residents

UVM conducting study on COVID long-haulers

2nd COVID variant confirmed in Vermont

New Hampshire teachers start getting COVID vaccinations

Will proposed Vt. benefits discourage seasonal workers from returning to labor force?

Vt. Senate looks to fast-track comprehensive stimulus bill

Super Senior: Jim Hasson - Part 2

Vermont Senate approves mail-in voting for general elections

Welch provides update on Vermont's $1.3B relief package

Yankees, Mets allowed to start seasons with 20% capacity

Colchester senior's pandemic project earns him a full ride

Newport prison reports 12 new COVID cases

Advisory committee calls for Vt. inmates to be vaccinated immediately

First lady promotes 'American Rescue Plan' in New Hampshire

Champlain Expo COVID surge site to remain on standby

Cuomo gets J&J vaccine

Vt. pubs celebrate St. Paddy's Day with eye to full-reopening

What will Vermont weddings look like in 2021?

Keene State plans full in-person fall semester

Show goes on for North Country kids while keeping audience safe

NH launches new COVID vaccine appointment system

Show goes on for North Country kids while keeping audience safe

Vt. health experts confident in AstraZeneca vaccine despite UK concerns

Some Vt. districts push back on federally-mandated SBAC tests

Vt. school sports team spreads COVID to another school

Vermont Senate greenlights universal mail-in voting

Clinton County marks one year since first COVID case

IRS allows tax break for unemployment; Vermont undecided

UVM faces backlash over strict COVID policies

Vermont Breakfast on the Farm to feature virtual tour

Scott: Accelerated vaccinations will allow return to 'normal' by July 4

Multiple COVID cases associated with wrestling tournament

High school students return to band class with some adjustments

Clinton County marks one year since first COVID case

Sanders discusses pandemic challenges with Vermont students

Weddings and catered events to resume in New York, with limited restrictions

2 utilities work together to get broadband to more Vermonters

COVID forces Vermont school back to fully remote classes

Vt. eviction moratorium extension impacts renters, landlords

Vermont tourism industry cautiously optimistic about summer

Dartmouth-Hitchcock eases restrictions on visitors

Trudeau urges patience on closed US-Canada border

COVID-19 cases at Dartmouth drop

Newport prison reports 21 new COVID cases

NH summer tourism looking good, but some COVID problems remain

Burlington Irish Heritage Festival kicks off

St. Patrick's Day mixer parade on for 2021

The Edge offers free 1-month membership for health care workers

Maple sugarhouse hopes to revive tradition this year

BCA offers grants, support to artists during pandemic

UVM students petition against 'inhumane' COVID safety enforcement

Burlington loses businesses, gain new ones during pandemic

Teacher vaccination clinics turn celebratory

Food insecurity remains key COVID-related concern in Vermont

Vt. restaurants welcome easing of restrictions

Stuck in Vermont: The Tran family patriarch gets vaccinated

5th annual Vermont Beardies underway

Judge rules against Newport store owner over mask violations

Scott aims for April vaccination goal; loosens social gathering, restaurant rules

'Addibot' gives young girl a chance to see her peers at school

New vaccine appointment system to debut next week in NH

NH updates reopening guidance for retail businesses, salons, bars, restaurants

Skiers get creative with tailgating options

Corrections commissioner responds to concerns of Newport inmates' families

How the new child tax credit will help Vermont families

How are rural communities navigating vaccination rollout?

Nearly a quarter of Vermonters now vaccinated against COVID

Super Senior: Jim Lovely

Vt. Governor's Institute launches 'Serious Talks for Silly People' series

NH group recommends guidance for arts venues, amusement parks

NY hospitals keep practices born in COVID rush

Domestic travel allowed in NY with no quarantine starting in April

Newport prison outbreak continues; 127 active cases

No reported COVID cases from NH House sessions

Vaccine sign-ups open for Vermonters 16+ with high-risk health conditions

Concert series resumes at Richmond Congregational Church

Weinberger says minority communities should be vaccinated next

Vt. officials: Homeless hotel program to continue for duration of COVID emergency

COVID-19 cases level off at UVM

Lt. Gov. Hochul: 'Thank God' for federal relief package

Local lawmakers react to passage of American Rescue Plan

How pandemic pups are faring with their new forever families

Mother Load: A year in the life of three single moms in Vermont

New Yorkers 60+ can start getting COVID-19 vaccines this week

College COVID cases steady in our region

Phase 5B vaccination group timeline moved to Thursday; 'Spigot' turn expected Friday

As weather warms, Vt. schools eye return to outdoor classrooms

NH working to train food industry workers in COVID safety

Burlington airport sees travel starting to take off again

UVM Health Network faces \$21M in losses

Girls on the Run returns for 2021 season

Happy campers: More overnight camps to reopen this summer

Montpelier High School goes virtual after multiple COVID cases

Essex Westford School District to go to full in-person learning at the end of April

Sanders calls \$1.9T COVID relief plan most significant bill in decades

Will teacher vaccinations get Vermont kids back in classrooms?

Women struggling with unemployment on this International Women's Day

NH Motor Speedway hosts mass vaccination clinic

Will Vermont's migrant farmworkers be eligible for COVID shots?

UK strain of COVID-19 confirmed in Vermont

COVID outbreak at Vermont prison slows

Vermont teachers use different process to register for COVID vaccinations

State begins vaccine registration for Vermonters with health conditions

COVID-19 relief package includes Hassan bill to support businesses

Virtual program aims to help Vermont farmers

NH town managers worry about business health, infrastructure

Collaborative vaccination clinics cause confusion, snarl Essex Jct. traffic

Newport business owner defends decision to violate mask order

A look back at the pandemic year

The quandary of prolonged positive COVID tests

Vt. education officials pinning vaccinations to return-to-school effort

Burlington woman's music video aims to dispel vaccination myths in refugee community

Pandemic tips on taxes

\$25M recommended for NH coronavirus relief reserve fund

Feeding Chittenden launches online platform

Middlebury College reports six COVID cases; UVM, Dartmouth trying to contain outbreaks

NH teachers next in line for COVID-19 vaccine

Phish frontman helping others in addiction fight

Vt. health officials concerned by drop in people seeking COVID tests

Vermont comedians take standup show online

Vaccinations ramping up in New York, North Country

Easing kids' fears about COVID in the classroom

99% of 2020 Vermont Tech grads find jobs despite pandemic economy

NH Senate moves bill forward to fund microbusinesses, venues

Corrections commissioner calls Vermont prison outbreak a 'crisis'

Slots open at South Burlington vaccination clinics

Study finds low levels of COVID antibodies in Vt. schools

Hassan seeks update on postal service hiring, delays

State: Vermonters should receive new 1099-G forms by Friday

Pandemic Milestone: One year since first case was found in our region

Critics say Newport prison outbreak could have been avoided

New York will loosen some virus restrictions on gatherings

Child psychiatrist on importance of getting kids back into classrooms

North Country lawmaker argues repeal of Cuomo authority long overdue

Frustrations from front-line workers over who can get COVID vaccinations

Some Vermonters being forced to return unemployment benefits

New Hampshire VA center offers vaccine to veterans of any age

COVID outbreaks reported at two Vt. long-term care facilities

COVID outbreak at Newport prison growing

Pandemic pauses 200-year-old Town Meeting Day tradition in Strafford

Vermont town meetings carry on, albeit without tradition

Catholics voice concerns over morality of Johnson & Johnson vaccine

Will pandemic, weather leave Vt. sugar-makers in a sticky situation?

VSO gives exclusive performance for Vermont Town Meeting Day workers

NH bill would help new businesses hit by coronavirus

Speedway vaccination site to open, with goal of 10,000

Vaccinations for school staff, underlying health conditions open next week

Vermonters 65+ start signing up for COVID vaccinations

Walgreens scheduling issue leaves some waiting on 2nd COVID shots

COVID-19 cases at Dartmouth College spike

Pandemic politics: Will Burlington voters play it safe?

Vermont couple shares sweet treats with community

Plattsburgh Mayor Rosenquest in quarantine

NH House committees hear emergency order backlash bills

Vermont begins process of returning state workers to offices

Are Vermont companies embracing employees working from home?

Former Vermont mall store to become COVID-19 vaccine hub

NH maple farmers welcoming visitors, with limitations this year

Sununu among governors opposing COVID relief bill

Parents, teachers react to state's new Education Recovery Plan